SYNOPSIS

A story told through the tenderness and complicity that exists between a grandmother and her 12 grandchildren. A sweet and enjoyable series full of vibrant moments for the whole family.

Talented actress Rosa Maria Sardá plays the role of Eva, a grandmother who goes to her country house in Gerona with her twelve grandchildren every month of July in order to spend some time with them.

During a summer full of adventures and unforgettable events, these 5 to 15 year old children will live under Eva's discipline: cooking roster, democratic decision making, timetables, animal care, etc. They discover a life different from their usual one: no television, surrounded by nature and looked upon by a grandmother who doesn't treat them like little beings, instead, she listens to them and talks to them like grown up.

First love, first let down, fights, competition, sincerity and even news about injustice in the World are events that are innocently lived by the children through the vision of a grandmother who learns from her grandchildren at the same time as she teaches them to learn.

A family series full of tenderness and humour for the enjoyment of young and old.

Inspired in the novel "The diary of a summer grandmother", by Rosa Regás, this evocative production will make us relive memories from our childhood, our first discoveries and lessons on life, creating a common point with the younger members of the household and allowing us to enjoy things as a family.
